

JOHN JAY SINGLETON'S SCRIPT NOTES (Interview with Peggy Hall)

BASIC STEPS:

- Go in the store.
- Do your shopping.
- Wait for the manager to approach you in the store.
- Take a couple items and go to the cashier.
- Put the products down.
- Wait for the cashier to say, "my manager said I can't sell these items to you."
- Then ask, "are you denying me service because of a disability I have?"
- The manager will say "no but you're not complying with the law."
- Then say, "I just wanted to get confirmation I'm being denied services because of a disability I have."
- Take the notice of discrimination form when going to a store, have the violator sign it and service it to them. Then take a photo for record keeping.

SCRIPT:

- Bring the store manager over (politely)
  - Ask "what is your name?" "What is your job title?" Get his/her name & job title.
  - Ask "are you the manager of this facility right now?"
    - "Are you responsible for the entire facility at this time?"
- Get that person to admit he/she is responsible for the entire property.
- Ask "are you denying me service because of a disability I have & my religious convictions?"
- Get him/her to admit "are you denying me services now?"
  - "What's the reason?"
    - "Is it because I'm unable to wear a face mask due to my medical conditions & religious convictions?"
- Then say "okay, so you're requiring medical intervention of myself. So, if I act upon your medical intervention and I wear a mask like you're saying, and then I go and shop and you've not conducted any medical examination, so you don't know my medical history at all, nor are you medically competent: Are you the physical on site? Is there a physician on site?"
  - "So let me ask you this, are you willing to accept the responsibility & liability if I collapse in an unconscious state?"
    - Do you have insurance for this?"
      - "I just want to see where we are here with liability."
- If they deny service, complete & serve the notice of discrimination form and leave.

SIDE NOTES:

- It doesn't need to be pushed to where the police come.
- If the police are called, that's cause for more damages.
  - If the store calls the police, that's exacerbating the situation unnecessarily.
    - They didn't need to do that.
- When a business is open to the public, it has its own policies.
  - They can make their own policies, but they still have to do it within the confines of the law.
    - As an example, they can't make an aspirin or a line of coke to come into the store. They can't make those kinds of policies.
  - They can't break the law.
    - They aren't their own legislative body.
